

ABSTRACT

An ion guide is disclosed comprising a plurality of electrodes each having apertures which are preferably circular and substantially the same size. The ion guide is preferably maintained in a vacuum chamber at a relatively high pressure.